

Scotland Health Care System

Scotland Health Care System, based in Laurinburg, North Carolina, is a community owned and controlled not-for-profit organization that includes Scotland Memorial Hospital, Scotland Regional Comprehensive Care and Hospice of Scotland County. The organization also comprises the Edwin Morgan Center skilled nursing facility and Scotland Memorial Foundation.

With more than 1,000 full- and part-time employees, Scotland Health Care is the area's largest employer. More than 70 physicians cover a comprehensive array of specialties including cardiology, emergency medicine, gastroenterology, general surgery, internal medicine, orthopaedics and oncology.

Scotland Memorial Hospital, a 104-bed acute care hospital, was established in 1946 utilizing medical facilities of the deactivated Laurinburg-Maxton Air Base. Scotland Health Care attracts patients from the outlying regions of Wagram, Maxton and Pembroke, North Carolina, and serves the Bennettsville area of South Carolina through satellite primary care practices. Together, these facilities receive well over 20,000 patient visits per year.

The Scotland Cancer Treatment Center has a linear accelerator with multi-leaf collimation and electronic portal imaging. These features allow physicians to perform services including intensity-modulated radiation therapy and image-guided radiation therapy. The Center provides both medical oncology and radiation oncology in the same facility. Pending additions include a CT scanner with cardiac capability and a cardiac catheterization lab.

Scotland Health Care is devoted to fulfilling individual and community needs while providing high quality services. Our uncompromising excellence and commitment to care give patients more of everything. It's who we are at Scotland Health Care.
